

Daniel C. Conlon Elected as Shareholder at Tucker Arensberg, P.C.

News, Press Releases November 19, 2021

The law firm of Tucker Arensberg, P.C., one of the premier law firms in Pittsburgh with offices in Harrisburg, New York, and the San Francisco Bay Area* is pleased to announce that business, municipal and hospitality focused attorney, Daniel C. Conlon, has been elected to the firm's membership as a shareholder.

"We are pleased to have Daniel become a Shareholder with the firm. I had the good fortune to meet Daniel when he was a law student. He has continually shown himself to be an exceptional attorney and a true problem solver. Daniel's experience in the restaurant and hospitality industry has made him one of the go-to lawyers in the local community." said Irving Firman, the firm's Managing Shareholder.

Daniel works with a wide range of clients including business owners, municipalities/school districts and those in the hospitality industry to help them achieve their goals. Daniel has a strong business background and uses this experience to bring more than a law degree to all matters he takes on. Daniel understands the challenges these industries face and offers planning and solutions to problems before they occur.

Daniel is active in Pittsburgh's non-profit community, having served as President of the Latino Community Center, and currently serves on the Board of Pittsburgh Hispanic Development Corporation and the Duquesne Law Alumni Association Board of Governors.

Every year since 2019, Daniel has been recognized as a Pennsylvania Rising Star by Super Lawyers in the area of State/Local/Municipal Law. In 2019, Daniel was selected by Pittsburgh Magazine and PUMP 40 Under 40.

Daniel received his law degree from Duquesne University School of Law; he graduated from North Park University with a Bachelor of Arts degree. Daniel was born in Chicago, IL but was raised in San Miguel de Allende, Mexico and cannot remember whether he spoke English or Spanish first as a child.
